ROAD RASH

game type: RACING
1-2 PLAYERS

When Road Rash 2 was released last year it caused a big stir amongst gamers and was hailed as the best biker game to hit the Mega Drive. This joint Master System/Game Gear release is just as good!

Road Rash, as with Road Rash 2, features five levels, each consisting of five tracks; these are located in Hawaii, Arizona, Tennessee, Alaska and Vermont. As you progress further into the game you'll encounter police chasing you on certain tracks, and if they catch you a fine will be imposed.

You'll begin with a low-powered bike, but as you get further into the game, and your money has accumulated, you get the chance to upgrade to one of the several more powerful motorbikes. Once the race is underway you get a great feel of speed as your bike rolls faster and the ground shifts at a realistic pace. Overtaking the opposition is fairly simple, but if you find it difficult you can always punch, kick, club or ram your opponent off! There are many on-screen indicators including the speed, position in race and time.

To qualify for entry in the next race you must come within the top four positions. The cash prize on offer depends on your qualifying position, and also the level. The two-player mode isn't simultaneous which is probably a good thing as the Mega Drive two-player split-screen game was terrible.

Road Rash is an excellent motor bike game and is definitely worth buying. It's great fun playing solo, but even better racing with a friend. - DG.

BARKLEY: SHUT UP & JAM!

game type: SPORTS
1-4 PLAYERS

When one video games publisher releases a specific type of game, you can bet the rest will follow. Electronic Arts brought out FIFA Soccer and Sony followed with Sensible Soccer. Now Acclaim have unleashed the excellent NBA Jam basketball game and here Accolade have released Shut Up and Jam! But is it any good I hear you cry? Well, according to Accolade it's not strictly basketball. The game is called Streetball, which is basketball without the audience! There are no rules either, so you can steal the ball or just knock over one of the opposition!

Each team consists of just two players, either you versus the computer or another human player. Team players can be selected from the 16 featured, each containing their own individual strengths and weaknesses. This includes the great Sir Charles Barkley(?) upon whom the game is based. From here, you select where you are going to play from the eight scenarios featured. These include Chicago, Miami and Phoenix (where Sir Charles himself plays).

The game can be played in different ways including a tournament, single game or a series.

If you are involved in a series or tournament you can't save the game, but instead are given a password which needs to be typed in the next time you play. The players themselves are very well animated and can perform some spectacular moves when jumping with the ball.

Overall, Shut Up and Jam! isn't as good as NBA Jam. It's certainly an excellent simulation of the sport, but there just isn't enough to keep you occupied. I successfully completed the game after two days, mainly because it's extremely easy to score. It's still fun as a two-player game, however, and even more fun when you have a four-player adaptor. - DG.

VIRTUAL PINBALL

game type: ARCADE SIMULATION
1 PLAYER

As a long-standing pinball fan, I eagerly awaited the release of Electronic Arts' Virtual Pinball longing for those good old days when there were always more than three balls to a game and a machine could take a nudge in its stride. As with most arcade conversions it lives up to some expectations, and falls short on others.

You have a wide choice of tables to select from and there appears to be no end to the variations you can inflict on the look of the game. The quality of the games range from tedious to incredibly challenging. The 1-4 player mode ups the potential excitement level and saves you from eternally bashing away on your own.

The controls, which are basic, add to the realism of the game. The noise of the flipper is a dead ringer for the sounds of the arcade. You can adjust action and skill levels, and there are some decent music samples to choose from. However, it should be said that even on the fastest level (a.k.a. psychotic), it doesn't seem quite fast enough.

It is impossible to see the whole table, which can be a tad frustrating, and makes chasing any ghost balls you release a lost cause. The graphics are a bit flat, in fact, any 3-D perspective is basically lost, but overall this is an acceptable compromise considering the space a real table would occupy.

The high point is the workshop feature where you can construct your own tables or change existing layouts on other tables by adding as many flippers, bumpers and targets as you can cram into the playing area. While it is time consuming to start from scratch, it gives the game a whole other dimension and makes a few demands on the grey matter.

All in all, Virtual Pinball simply doesn't pretend to be more than it is. If you like pinball, you'll probably find this a blast. Good, basic fun. - JF WORLD CUP GRABBED!

U.S. GOLD TAKES REAL FOOTBALL TO THE USA

Following its successful bid to host the video game version of the 1994 Winter Olympics, U.S. Gold has now scored another coup by signing the 1994 World Cup, to be held in the USA this summer.

World Cup USA '94 will be the title of the official World Cup computer and video game, which U.S. Gold will release across all formats, including Sega Mega Drive, Master System, Game Gear and Mega-CD, early next month.

The game will feature actual images and designs from the World Cup as well as animations of the official mascot, Striker the dog. Gameplay is claimed to be 'realistic' with more than 15 different moves including overhead, bicycle and scissor kicks, goalkeeper throw-outs and one-handed saves. World Cup USA '94 incorporates 3,000 frames of animation and allows players to compete at Club, International and World Cup levels.

Now, if only the home teams had fielded a squad of video game footballers...

STRIKE THREE!

EA TARGET MORE HIGH-FLYING ACTION

Work is underway at Electronic Arts on Urban Strike, a - you guessed it - sequel to those top blasters Jungle Strike and Desert Strike. No prizes for figuring out where the action will be set, but we could be swayed to award a cream cake with a cherry on top to anyone who can accurately predict any further details (EA aren't saying much for now).

If that isn't enough, get ready for Road Rash 3, from EA before the end of 1994.

Jungle Strike: Next time it's urban action.

WAR IS HELL!

SENSIBLE SET TO TURN YOUR BEDROOM INTO A BATTLEGROUND

Find out why war is hell with Cannon Fodder.

Yet another of Sensible (Soccer) Software's home computer hits is coming to the Mega Drive - Cannon Fodder. This is a controversial combat simulation where the player takes control of troops of 'toy' soldiers and attempts to wipe out the opposition across different terrains. In addition to the Jungle, Arctic Wastes, Desert, Moorlands and Underground Base found in the original Amiga version, the Mega Drive incarnation will feature some new locations.

Expect to see something before 1994 is over. In the meantime, here's a picture from the Amiga version of Cannon Fodder (trust us, it will look almost identical on the Mega Drive).

Bink: The Daring set to make his Mega Drive debut

CONVERSION FEVER

MORE GAME COMPANIES TURN TO SEGA SYSTEMS

If you have any doubt about the rise and rise of the Sega games systems, check out this news of publishers converting their wares from other formats to the Sega systems.

INTERPLAY'S MEGA DRIVE INTERACTION: To date, American publisher Interplay's Mega Drive conversions have been released in the UK through Virgin Interactive Entertainment (so far only Another World and The Lost Vikings have made it to the shops). This situation is unlikely to change in the foreseeable future, with Virgin working on Rock 'n' Roll Racing for the Mega Drive for release at the end of this year, and rumours of a Mega Drive version of Clayfighter ('quirky' one-on-one fighting action with huge clay characters capable of changing their shape).

Interplay's forthcoming attractions include The Lost Vikings II and at least half-a-dozen new, yet-to-be-announced games in development for the SNES, but the company is known to be eager to see these releases on the Mega Drive as quickly as possible. Whether they appear through Virgin remains to be seen.

DRAGONS, CAVEMEN AND MONSTERS: Elite isn't a name associated with Sega releases, but you may be interested to hear that the Walsall-based company is planning two conversions of conversions.

From arcade machines to the SNES and now the Mega Drive comes Dragon's Lair, starring Dirk The Daring. It's a much more 'traditional' interactive run 'n' jump 'n' hack 'n' slash experience than the simple laserdisc arcade machine from the early '80s (which, by a bizarre coincidence, has been converted to the Mega-CD and is out now from Sega).

Joe & Mac: Caveman

Ninja is a palatable platform romp starring two cavemen. Plus, for the Game Gear, there's Dr Franken; 200 screens of platform-oriented puzzler that actually looked good and played even better on the Game Boy, but will no doubt benefit from the Game Gear's superior capabilities. No release dates have been set simply because Elite has no Sega-compatible publishing slots yet.

SHORT BURSTS

MD 3?

There is rumour surrounding a 'new' Sega console, code-named 'Jupiter', coming out soon. Sega's much-touted 32-bit Saturn console should be available early next year, but before then it's rumoured that a 'souped-up' Mega Drive will appear - perhaps as early as this summer.

There's certainly something on the horizon, but here at Sonic The Comic we are yet to be convinced that it's a new form of the Mega Drive. There's only one thing certain about the computer entertainment industry - and that's that nothing is certain!

NEW BALLS PLEASE

Basketball is very much an American sport that has had minimal impact in the UK - Michael Jordan, Larry Johnson and Magic Johnson are hardly household names over here. However, that hasn't stopped game publishers going basketball bonkers.

Flying Edge's quality conversions of Midway's arcade hit NBA Jam are already out for the Mega Drive and Game Gear. In the coming months the on-court onslaught continues with Electronic Arts' NBA Showdown, Virgin's Jammit, Accolade's Barkley: Shut Up And Jam and Konami's Hyperdunk (not to mention the possibility of a version of Tiny Toons Sports in which Buster Bunny and friends play basketball). Then there's the oddball of the bunch: Electronic Arts' Shaq-Fu, in which basketball's newest superstar, Shaq, takes on the opposition in a combat simulation, along the lines of Final Fight and Streets Of Rage.

IT'S A MONSTER!

Argonaut (the team behind 1986's 3D blaster Starglider and, more recently, Nintendo's 'awesome' SFX chip) recently started work on a new game called Creature Shock. It's a blend of blasting and exploration with three-dimensional computer-rendered imagery and plenty of repulsive monsters to tackle, and is being written specifically for the CD-ROM formats - among them, allegedly, the Mega-CD. Argonaut reckon that Creature Shock won't be as limited as some of the more linear CD 'experiences' currently available. Let's hope not.

FIFA'S RETURN MATCH

Having a problem getting hold of Electronic Arts' impressive FIFA International Soccer? Fear not! It sold out over Christmas 1993, but has been re-released to meet demand, ooh, about now. The price? £44.99.

SONIC Solved

Sonic Chaos Part 2

THE ZONES CONTINUED

MECHA GREEN HILL ZONE

ACT 1

This stage flows really well but there are some deadly new dangers to be aware of.

Things to look out for:-

- TV goodies to collect include: Extra rings, an Extra Life and an Invincibility.

Things to watch out for:-

- Bombs dropping off trees.
- Slippery walkways
- Beetle bumpers.
- Nasty drops with springs that help you lose a life.

Bound across a slimy sea, leap over spikes and grab every ring in sight to get that magic 100 rings to warp you away.

ACT 2

Things to look out for:-

- TV with Invincibility and one with the Extra Life in the top third of the screen.
- Hidden TVs with rings, Rocket Shoes.

Things to watch out for:-

- More tree bombs (do not hang around under them).
- Bumper beetles (ram them).
- Nasty collapsing platforms that can lose you a life.

A great touch is the vertical Mobius Strip-like drop, approximately half way through the stage, where you can roll down from one ledge to another.

There're plenty of rings to collect and a Pogo Pad for Sonic to ride.

ACT 3

Act 3 is a walk in the park with plenty of rings to collect so long as you don't fall off the long walkways or try to see what's under the collapsing platforms!

Take a deep breath and prepare for a super easy boss to beat!

AQUA PLANET ZONE

ACT 1

This zone may look simple but watch out! The controls start to feel a little slack which means you have to jump earlier to clear spikes and avoiding collapsing ledges becomes much harder!

Things to look out for:-

- Rings.
- Speed up shoes.
- Invincibility.
- Rocket Shoes (well hidden!).

There are some cleverly hidden job lots of TVs containing masses of rings.

ELECTRIC EGG ZONE

2:10

ACT 1

To get through the Electric Egg Zone go with the flow and keep a keen eye on the overhead lasers; they will follow you and fire lasers down just when you don't need them!

Another skill to learn is watching AHEAD of you for turn offs from the pipes you travel in. As well as backtracking to avoid the aliens dropping in front of you and exploding and releasing shrapnel!

Still it is not all bad news. You get to jump off rows of springs with the area above littered with rings, ride a mine cart and leap off, pick up Invincibility TVs and, if you are really hot, find a mega hoard of around 200 rings!

ACT 2

You really get to play this stage. There are tubes galore, bumpers, overhead lasers, exploding aliens, TVs with Rocket Shoes, invincibility, Extra Life, and a hidden room full of flying robots.

Remember to keep an eye on the clock and try not to get too caught up with the overhead lasers. You can easily get 100 rings on this stage so get them quickly and try to watch out for what is coming up ahead of you!

ACT 3

This is it! Your big chance to face-off against Robotnik and do your best to blow him away.

En route you get a little help if you can find the special exit that leads to the secret hoard of ring-packed TVs.

Keep calm and ride the mine cart. Remember to jump off, land on the platform and leap up into the tube to get to the above-mentioned goodies.

The final encounter with Robotnik is a real toughie, guaranteed to give you sweaty palms.

Next issue:
Sonic Chaos
Part 3 -
The Special
Stages!

ACT 2

Goodies galore abound in this stage but you have to work for them.

Things to look out for:-

- TVs with rings are hidden away on the top third of the screen.
- The bottom half of the play area has plenty of springs to kick you around.
- A moving platform section over spikes leads to an Extra Life in the lower half as well as a Bumper Point to kick you around loops with rings.
- If possible, work your way to the top of the loops for lashings of ring-laden TVs.

ACT 3

Time to get it on with the boss man!

On the way you can get help by collecting an Invincibility from a TV hidden above you. You can get through to it by leaping through a solid brick in the middle of a Red Spring combo. Don't ignore the TV with rings along the way if you want to have a healthy collection of rings.

Mum in a Million

Dear STC,

As a mum of two STC fans, I thought I would tell you of my efforts, ie, I transformed a dreaded Turtles clock into a Sonic clock with the aid of your free stickers. I also made my son Carl a birthday cake complete with gold coloured rings, which took me quite a long time. As I've done all this hard work, I would love a Sonic Water Fun Game to unwind with. I might even let the children have a go, providing they do the washing up, tidy their rooms etc.

Mrs C Dacombe, Moordown, Bournemouth.

Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

We don't usually send out valuable prizes to older humes Mrs D, but it sounds like you've earned it.

The Magic Words

Dear STC,

Can you please help me? Every time I mention Sonic the Hedgehog to my mum, she lets out a loud scream. She now does this up to 90 times per day. Can you suggest a cure? Yours hopefully...

Ashley Belshaw, Hucknall, Notts. MD owner.
Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

I hate to be the one to break the news to you Ashley, but it sounds like your mother could be Doctor Robotnik in disguise. This would explain why she gets so irate at the mere mention of Sonic the (aaagggghh!).

Spur-red On

Dear STC,

In issue 15 someone drew a brilliant picture of Sonic in a Manchester United football kit. As I don't think I'm very good at drawing, could anyone out there draw a picture of Sonic wearing a Tottenham strip? Thanks.

Tom Pizzey, Parliament Hill, London.

MD owner.

Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

Gah-men on you Boomers, or Tom will be as sick as a cool (Isn't that what you footballing humes say?).

Mmm, Michael, sounds like an interesting combination - did it taste good?

Half Baked

Dear STC,

My dad got so sick of seeing STC that he gave me a wallop and chucked it in the bin. When I went to dig it out, it was covered in baked beans!

Michael Booth, Lytham St Annes, Lancs.

MD owner.

Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

Curry Favour

Dear STC,

I think your magazine is really wonderful. I loved the story 'Day of the Badniks' and the pictures were really cool. The problem is that because I live in Pakistan I'm unable to get STC direct and have to wait.

Anila Durrahi, Lahore, Pakistan.

Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

Glad to know Anila, that STC reaches parts of the world other magazines can't.
